REPLY MAY BE CONCILIATORY

Believed Germany Will Try to Prevent Break.

EXPECT TO ASK ARBITRATION

Germany, It is Thought, Will Abandon Submarine Attacks on Shipping Only if England Will Abandon Its Policy of "Starvation."

Washington, May 17.—If Berlin accepts the views held by influential Germans in this country it is certain that the German government's reply to President Wilson's note about the submarine operations will be conciliatory and persuasive in tone, and will contain several suggestions calculated from the German point of view to avert all danger of a break between the imperial government and the United States.

Germans here refuse to see in the president's note any castigation of the German government at which they should take offense, and are devoting themselves entirely to formulating such arguments as can be brought to bear in support of the German submarine operations, which resulted in the Lusitania disaster, in a way which they hope likely to appeal to the American public mind. That is, they are refusing to indulge themselves in the temptation to get angry about the matter, and instead are endeavoring to present ways in which they hope it can be smoothed over.

The views held in Berlin regarding the United States' position on the submarine operations are not definitely known here, but certainly the most interesting phase of the situation as it exists in Washington is the effort being made in German quarters to bring about an entirely amicable adjustment.

These activities are regarded here as evidence that Germans in this country, at least, recognize the serious possibilities of the situation, and are not willing that the two governments should break with each other if there is any way to prevent it. Evidence of this attitude are found in the self-imposed official silence of the German ambassador, the decision of Dr. Dernburg to eliminate himself from the situation, and most important, the private spreading of the German view in such quarters as are regarded as likely to afford the easiest channel of communication to the American public. It is reported that the German embassy has even gone to the length of advising the German-American press in this country to be moderate in its discussion of the submarine views. The German ambassador denies that any such instructions have been issued by the embassy, but nevertheless there is every reason to expect that the attitude of the embassy in this regard will soon enough find its reflection in the German-American newspapers.

From the discussions that have been going forward here, it now appears clear, the main idea of Germans in this country is that the Berlin government should take care of the Lusitania matter by proposing arbitration, and then dispose of the general question of submarine operations by requiring the United States to renew its efforts to get Great Britain to abandon its "starvation" policy in return for an abandonment of the German submarine program. If they accomplish this they probably would have accomplished all they expected from their submarine program, anyhow.

The best German thought in this country has been concentrated on these questions for nearly a week now and it may be said positively that their views already have been communicated to Berlin in one way or another. For this reason there is a disposition here to accord some importance to them, for it is argued that unless the German government actually wishes a break with the United States it will accept the advice of Germans who are closely in touch with American public opinion and the attitude of the administration in Washington.

IKE ROSENBAUM

Makes Fortune Buying Wool—Traveled Through Breckenridge County Years Ago.

The largest wool pool of the State of Kentucky, the Boone county wool pool consisting of about 50,000 pounds, was purchased last week by Isaac Rosenbaum & Son, of Louisville. Many people in this county remember Ike Rosenbaum when he used to travel through this county in a one-horse wagon buying wool, hides and ginseng. He was a general favorite with the country merchants and farmers who were glad to see him come around. He paid good prices, dealt fairly and his word was as good as his bond. From that small beginning he has built up a large business and made a small fortune. His many friends down in this section are glad to know of his success.

Tar Springs Sold.

V. G. Babbage, who has been investigating the title to the Tar Springs property, reports that a sale of the Springs and the Cloverport Hotel has been made to George A. Cox, of Maryland. The sale of the Springs includes all the hotel equipment and other property at the Springs. The deeds transferring the property were put to record at Hardinsburg last week. Mr. Cox was here last winter and looked over the property before purchasing.

"CLOVERPORT CLEANEST TOWN IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY"

Says Dr. Curry, State Sanitary Engineer—Town Will have to Keep Clean by Cleaning Up More Than Once a Year—Health Meetings Close.

The series of health lectures which opened at the American Theater April 21, closed Monday night with two lectures: One by John W. McFarland, State Pure Food Inspector, and Dr. D. P. Curry, State Sanitary Engineer. Mr. McFarland made a strong appeal to the people to demand clean meat and pure food—along with this he stated he had found a clean slaughter house here. "Always look for the pure food stamp and those little stamps way off in the corner. You must keep Cloverport, Cloverport cannot keep you," were the thoughts Mr. McFarland made lasting. Dr. Curry's sincere pleading was "keep clean." He told how it could be done and said at present Cloverport is the cleanest town in Kentucky. "This health campaign is so unusual that a state bulletin will be issued to give Mr. Frank, the originator, credit for his work," said Dr. Curry. "Such a campaign was never thought of or had before in the United States, and elsewhere, men, who have worked for health and sanitation, had to beg for a hearing." Those who financed the campaign were: Dr. A. A. Simons, Dr. E. C.

McDonald, Rev. J. S. Henry, and the originator. The expenses were $30, which the Rev. E. O. Cottrell said he knew would be met by personal offerings from the citizens without any solicitation.

The Rev. Frank thanked publicly the Cloverport Orchestra, P. E. Scott, Edward Gregory and the City Council, which Mayor Hamman reported had spent $45 in cleaning up the streets and hauling away rubbish for the residents.

The lecturers were all liked and Cloverport people delighted in hearing them. They were at ease in speaking, and not a nervous word was spoken. The town is well acquainted with the State Board, it means more to them now, than just a row of names engraved on a letter head.

Those who were here were as follows: Dr. C. Z. Aud, President of State Board of Health, Dr. Milton Board, of Louisville, Dr. A. D. Wilmoth, of Louisville, Dr. P. F. Barbour, of University of Louisville, Dr. Curran Pope, of Louisville, Dr. Roy L. French, State Tuberculosis Commission, Dr. Lillian South, State Bacteriologist.

SERMON TO GRADUATES SUNDAY

Beautiful Music Appreciated by Large Audience—The Rev. Robert Reeves Delivers Appropriate Address.

EVERYBODY ENJOYS SERVICES

The musical program given at the Methodist church Sunday night was beautiful and in excellent taste for the evening services in honor of the C. H. S. graduates. The music was arranged by Mrs. J. Procter Keith and every number was appreciated.

"How sweet and beneficial it would be to close this evening's program with these musical numbers," said the Rev. Robert Reeves, but we must not leave without speaking for Jesus Christ." Mr. Reeves gave as the subject of his sermon to the graduates, "The Choice of Two Kings." He told the graduates about King Solomon and all his glory—how many things he accomplished under the sun and yet everything was vanity and vexation to him. Then he told the story of the life of Christ. How he worked from day to day for several quiet years and in the end found happiness and success not only for himself, but others. Fear God and keep his commandments in your amusements, work and every phase of life, and even if you do not acquire wealth, you will be rich. These were the thoughts given to the class of 1915. Rev. Reeves encouraged them to enter a college, if they could and too not be in a hurry to get out in the world to attain temporal success.

Those, besides the graduates, certainly enjoyed this baccalaureate sermon. It was a guidance from things earthly to things heavenly.

Methodist Revival.

A series of meetings will begin at the Methodist church next Sunday. The Rev. Hummel, of Russellville, will arrive Monday night to assist the pastor.

STANLEY SPEAKS AT HARDINSBURG

To Large Crowd of Democrats. Dr. Milton Board, of Louisville, Tells Why He is Supporting Him.

ENTHUSIASTIC SPEECHES.

The Hon. A. O. Stanley, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, spoke at Hardinsburg last Saturday to a full house. Mr. Stanley made an enthusiastic speech. He has many warm friends in Breckenridge county and will be the contending man in the race for Governor. Dr. Milton Board introduced him and gave his reasons for breaking away from his former idol and friend, Senator Beckham. Mr. Board's speech created a sensation. In giving his reasons for supporting Mr. Stanley, he said he had been deserted by his friends whom he had served for a life time. He said he had thrown down the bars, gone into the camp of the opposition and enlisted under the banner of the strongest Richmond in the field, Mr. Stanley.

Mother's Birthday.

Mr. Brabandt has been engaged in the photography business here for the last eight years and is well-liked by everyone. They are expected home this week from Louisville, and Indiana where they visited their relatives.

DIRECTORS LIABLE

For Debts of the Two States Bank. Court of Appeals Says Officers of the Stephenson Institution Must Pay.

Frankfort, Ky., May 11.—Directors of the defunct Two States bank at Stephenson, Breckenridge county, are held liable to the depositors for the full amount of the bank's indebtedness by the court of appeals today, reversing the Breckenridge circuit court on the appeal of Sarah K. Cunningham and other depositors against the directors, and affirming on the cross appeal of President R. A. Shellman from a personal judgment of $5,000 for loss of that amount on the cashier's bond by reason of negligence.

Referring to the responsibilities of directors, Judge Carroll said: "Persons who accept the office of director of an institution like this assume the duty of giving care to the affairs of the institution, and if they do not and loss is occasioned, it is more just that it should fall on them than on innocent and helpless depositors." C. M. Finn, of Owensboro, represented the depositors.

Candidate for Circuit Clerk.

Mr. Guthrie E. Tucker, of Mook, has decided to enter the race for the Republican nomination for Circuit Court Clerk of Breckenridge county. Mr. Tucker is a live, wide-awake young farmer, with many friends behind him. His entry into the race will make it interesting.

Tobacco Moving at Glen Dean.

Walter Moorman received at Glen Dean last week 75,000 pounds of tobacco. Among the sellers were: J. W. Cannon, 7,000 pounds one sucker; M. Galloway fine crop of Burley; Hugh Haycraft, 12,500 pounds one sucker, which he sold for $8, $4 and $1. Mr. Moorman has bought about 150,000 pounds on contract for a Louisville firm. Mr. Moorman is also an enthusiastic road man. He has a machine and is making roads that he can get over. He has a splendid road from his home to Glen Dean mostly through his own work together with his neighbors. County Supervisor Basham was looking over this road last week and said it was all right. This road is graded and graveled for two and a half miles.

NASHVILLE BOOSTERS

Get Cloverport by the Wrong Name, But Were Welcome Visitors.

Notwithstanding the Nashville Boosters called Cloverport Cloverport and Cloverdean, the party broke the monotony of the general run of business affairs for an hour last Wednesday morning. The train stopped at the corner of Elm and Second streets and was greeted by a large delegation of citizens. The Boosters marched to Main street and took a look at the flower garden of Paul Lewis, after which they were welcomed to the city by V. G. Babbage.

Among the Boosters, who responded to Mr. Babbage's cordial remarks was Leland Hume, of the Cumberland Telephone Company. Mr. Hume is one of the greatest telephone men in the United States. While here he made a call at the exchange and extended his best wishes to the office and operators.

W. R. Hensley, trainmaster of the L. & N. St. L. R. R. Company, was on the train.

The Boosters invited the people of Cloverport to come to Nashville when they could not find what they wanted at home, Louisville or Evansville. Their parting words were, "When you get too big for Cloverport, come to Nashville."

SPECIAL TRIP

Over the Branch By President and General Manager of The L. & N. R'y.

President R. N. Hudson and Mrs. Hudson made a trip in their special car over the Branch last week inspecting the road from Irvington to Fordsville. Mr. Hudson said the roadbed was in good condition, but it would be further improved as soon as he could get gravel. At Glen Dean a new depot will be built at once. Other depots on the line will be given his personal attention as soon as he can get to them. The president is enthusiastic over his road and its service to the patrons and public. The Henderson Route, under Mr. Hudson's watchcare, will be made one of the best and most prosperous roads in the State.

BRITISH GAIN A BIG VICTORY

Report the Capture of German Breastworks.

MOVE FORWARD A FULL MILE

Claim the Engagement is Still Under Way and That the British Holds the Upper Hand—General French Reports.

London, May 17.—Another drive into the German lines has begun by the British army in order to straighten the allied front southward from Neuve Chapelle. An official statement given out by the war office contains a dispatch from General French telling of this new offensive—and its entire success is in the preliminary stages.

The German front has been shattered along the greater part of a two-mile line between Richebourg L'Avoue and Festubert by a combined artillery and infantry assault of the British first army. Two attacks were made, one southward from Richebourg L'Avoue, and the other due east and just to the north of Festubert. In the former two successive attacks German breastworks were carried on a reach of eight hundred yards, and in the latter 1,200 yards of trenches were taken first, then the gain was extended 600 yards to the south, and the British troops dashed irresistibly forward for a full mile.

The fighting began when a strong force moved out from Richebourg L'Avoue and fell upon the Germans unexpectedly, splendidly supported by the artillery. This action was successful and while the attention of the Germans still was engaged in that region, another detachment was sent against the position to the south. The engagement still is under way and the British hold the upper hand, according to General French, who telegraphed as follows:

"Our first army made a successful attack between Richebourg L'Avoue and Festubert, breaking the line over the greater part of a two-mile front. The attack commenced at midnight south of Richebourg L'Avoue, where they carried two successive lines of German breastworks on a front of 800 yards.

"A mile further south we made another attack at dawn and carried 1,200 yards of the German front line trenches. Thence we pushed on rapidly, extending our success six hundred yards further south by bomb throwing operations.

"Here we crossed the Festubert-Quilque road and advanced nearly a mile into the German line. The fighting continues in our favor.

"Throughout the day our brave troops fought splendidly. At Ypres all has been quiet for the past forty-eight hours. Elsewhere on the front there is nothing to report."

The official communique issued by the French war office and telegraphed here dwells at some length on the successful and heroic advance of the British troops. It also couples up this particular achievement with the allied progress in the section north of Arras which continues unabated.

The necessity of straightening out the allied lines north of Arras has resulted in some remarkable work by both French and British soldiers. The French war office states that the Germans have now been driven from the few remaining salients where they retained a foothold, and that the forward movement from Lorette is being carried out successfully.

Berlin, via wireless to London, May 17.—The following official report was given out by the general staff:

In the western theater a strong force of the enemy's troops has been attacking north of Ypres, our positions, east of the canal, at Steenstraete and Het Sas without regard to its own losses. All attacks have been repulsed, but the battle of Steenstraete continues.

PROMINENT MEN NOW USE TANLAC

Mayors, County and Circuit Court Judges Obtain Famous Medicine.

Lexington May 18.—"I have sold Tanlac, since the beginning of its introduction in Lexington, to the mayors of a number of cities, county judges, circuit judges, and to many of the most prominent business and professional men in Kentucky," says Wm. E. Stagg, the Lexington druggist.

"The demand for the preparation has been phenomenal. In all of my twenty years' experience in the drug business I have never seen anything that equals it.

"In addition to the Lexington demand, Tanlac has been shipped from my store to Kansas City, Mo.; Colorado Springs, Col.; Denver, Col.; Memphis, Tenn.; Meridian, Miss.; Bonilla, S. D.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Louisville, Ky.; Tiffin, Ohio; Cincinnati, Ohio; Columbia, Tenn.; Palm Beach, Fla.; Phoenix, Arizona; Los Angeles, Cal., and many other points throughout the country that are too numerous to mention. You may rest assured that every city in Kentucky has, too, heard of Tanlac.

"I can only account for the great demand for this preparation by the fact that it is a good medicine. That is proven by the numerous statements from those who have tested the medicine in cases of catarrhal affections, or stomach, liver and kidney complaints, and are now convinced of its excellent merits. The public has been slow to appreciate the Tanlac merit.

"Practically $15,000 worth of Tanlac has been sold and distributed through my store within the past seventy days. Such a demand is most certainly unprecedented.

"I take pleasure in commending Mr. Cooper and his very excellent preparation."

Tanlac, the preparation referred to, is now sold in Cloverport only by Wedding's drug store, and in Irvington only by Irvington Pharmacy.

TRANSYLVANIA NOT DOCKED

News of Ships Anxiously Awaited by Friends of Passengers.

New York, May 17.—No word of the steamship Transylvania has been received, either in London or at the New York office of the Anchor Line. A representative of the line said it was not expected that any report of the vessel's movements would be made until she arrives either at Liverpool or Glasgow. In marine circles, it was generally believed that the Transylvania had taken the course around the north of Ireland, rather than pass through the southern lane in which the Lusitania was torpedoed. Official information on this point, however, was not obtainable, owing to the strict secrecy imposed by the British admiralty on all orders issued to the steamship company.

Many Americans are on board the Transylvania, which left here Friday, May 7. Some anxiety has been felt by their friends, pending news of the safe arrival of the vessel at Liverpool or at Glasgow.

Another vessel in the war zone bearing many Americans is the White Star line steamship Adriatic, which left Liverpool after being detained there two days by order of the admiralty. It is believed she is safe from the German submarine menace.

DERNBURG ASKS SAFE CONDUCT FOR VOYAGE

Requests United States to Use Its Efforts.

Washington, May 17.—Dr. Dernburg, the kaiser's special representative in this country, desires to return to Europe armed with a British safe conduct for his voyage. It is very much of an open question whether he will get it or not.

At the doctor's request Ambassador Bernstorff took up the matter with the state department informally last week. He indicated that Dr. Dernburg would like to have the United States government use its good offices to secure for him a safe conduct for the sea voyage, from the British embassy. The supposition seems to have been that the state department would be willing enough to do anything in its power to speed the German unofficial spokesman on his way.

The state department, however, has not shown any alacrity about taking steps to secure for Dr. Dernburg a British safe conduct.

The department takes the view that as Dr. Dernburg has never acknowledged having any official connection with the German government, he is not entitled to claim any special consideration at the hands of the British government, nor from the United States government either for that matter. Consequently the state department does not intend to expose itself to any embarrassment by asking for favors for Dr. Dernburg which the British may not feel like granting.

Whooping Cough.

"When my daughter had whooping cough she coughed so hard at one time that she had hemorrhage of the lungs. I was terribly alarmed about her condition. BIG ORDERS ARE CANCELLED

French Experience With American Manufacturers Not Agreeable.

Paris, May 17.—An unfortunate situation has arisen with regard to granting contracts to American manufacturers, owing to the failure of even the big houses to deliver goods upon sample. Several important American contracts have been cancelled. Two important cases in point were the delivery of a monthly consignment of 50,000 pairs of boots below sample—the soldiers tore the boots into strips—and of 200,000 pairs of socks delivered and found to be of thirty per cent wool and seventy per cent cotton, while the contract called for seventy per cent wool and thirty per cent cotton.

Of several of the large American houses, with which the French government is doing business, only one has a record of never failing below sample. The worst deliveries are those of boots, socks and underwear. The deliveries of cloth are much better.

All the Effectiveness, Not the Effect of Calomel.

LIV-VER-LAX is one of the most important medical discoveries of recent years. For a long time medical experts, realizing the harmful effects of calomel, have been striving to find a liver cleanser that would be just as effective as calomel, and yet be absolutely harmless in its action. Recently this remedy was actually put forth by L. K. Grigsby, in his LIV-VER-LAX.

LIV-VER-LAX is a harmless vegetable compound, designed solely for the treatment of liver complaints. The immediate favor it has met with in thousands of homes is proof positive of its real value.

If you feel worn out, tongue coated, and skin sallow, don't delay until it becomes dangerous, rip the trouble in the bud with LIV-VER-LAX. Insist on the genuine, bearing the signature and likeness of L. K. Grigsby, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. For sale by Kincheloe's Pharmacy, Hardinsburg, Ky.

Seeking Extension of Visiting Nurse Service.

The State Tuberculosis Commission is attempting to establish visiting nurse service in all the principal towns of the state. Wherever a responsible local organization of any sort is able to procure the local expenses, estimated at $80, for two months' staff of nurses, the commission will, so far as its resources allow, send competent nurses to make investigation into the prevalence of tuberculosis and other diseases, and show communities how permanent nursing service may be established.

How Mrs. Harrod Got Rid of Her Stomach Trouble.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and from pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

PICNIC LUNCHES.

During the coming summer delightful outings will be held in every community in the way of fishing parties, boat trips, Sunday school picnics and automobile parties. One of the features of these outings are the bountiful lunches, in fact, a great waste of food is often seen and might be guarded by a little planning on the part of those who prepare the baskets. If those who arrange the parties would ask certain ones to make a certain number of sandwiches, cakes and the needed portions to make an attractive menu, an enormous waste of material could be avoided. Thoughtlessly people will prepare huge quantities of expensive food for such occasions, then never think of making anything especially for the sick, poor and needy. We hand out whatever we have to tramps on cold winter days, then in the hot summer spend sometime in preparing food for picnics, where there is usually so much that the guests leave on their plates as much as they have eaten. Correct table manners teach, that a person should never take more than they can eat and to leave anything on the plate is a poor compliment to the hostess. Food that is prepared with elegance bespeaks of hospitality and the happiest social hours are spent in dining together. Women should take pride in preparing lunches for picnics, with a few inquiries and consulting each other, sufficiently filled baskets may be had without waste and extravagance.

CHILDREN AND POLITICS.

"I don't know whether I am for prohibition or not, but my father is," said an eleven year old child last Friday. "I never see anyone drunk, except some old men on the streets." Then the one to whom she was speaking asked her if she would be for prohibition if her father was one of those men. The child changed immediately and could not bear the thought of seeing her father drunk. The child had got politics mixed with principles and had even been influenced away from her own father's belief. Principles, not politics, should be taught children. They should be taught to stand for right principles, because they make right a party. If this were true of the grown-up children of today, they would not be deserting the things that are best for the people, even though they perhaps endanger a party. If men would think more of the happiness of men and women, than so much about their respective political parties, we would have State-Wide prohibition and greatest of all National prohibition.

HITCHING SHEDS NEEDED.

Clean-up days have been a great success in Hardinsburg, Irvington and Cloverport and other towns during the last three weeks. The day has brought about better conditions in Cloverport and the town is not only looking forward to many improvements, but is undertaking them. What every town and business section of any community needs, is a hitching shed. The country stores as well as those in larger towns should not allow hitching in front of them and the customers should not ask it. Hitching sheds keep the streets clean, eliminate flies which bring to us typhoid and malaria germs, and protect the horses from the hot sun. While we are looking after our own health and pleasure, we should not neglect the welfare of the horses. They need the shade, the fresh water and a little kindness after coming so many miles to town nearly every day during the summer.

TWO EX-PRESIDENTS.

One bellows and shrieks and gibbers, careless of the delicacies and proprieties of the situation, eager to embarrass instead of supporting the President in a time of extreme perplexity, thoughtful only that one familiar voice shall screech over the country and the world.

The other, quietly patriotic and sincerely courageous, warns against the inflammation of popular passion, counsels delay, holds up the hands of the President, whose great task he thoroughly understands.

Which of those two sometime Presidents is doing the more for the advantage and honor of the United States?—New York Sun.

BETTER TIMES FOR ALL.

"I left home two weeks ago and never took as many orders in my twenty-five years of travel for the same length of time," writes John T. Ditto, traveling salesman in Kentucky, Illinois and Tennessee. "I never saw such a rally and brightness come over a country in my life as the rains have brought. It has not only cheered up the grass, but it has gladdened the hearts of mankind. Three years of drought, short crops, wars and rumors of wars, pretty hard things to bat against. Thank God, just at present the horizon is brightening for the Woodrow Wilson administration." Mr. Ditto's letter sounds the key-note of the day and there are better times in sight for all—the farmers and the rest of us.

FROHMAN'S ANSWER TO DEATH.

"Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life." These were the last words of Charles Frohman. They have been published in hundred of papers, showing how humanity grasps at such a hope in the world beyond. If men have hope, faith and trust in eternity little is ever said about it, instead the amount of money and property he leaves is always stated in the lines following his death and birth notice. The way this Lusitania victim answered death has created a new interest, a wonderful hope in the hearts of men. Frohman's last words are greater than any amount of money he could have left to humanity.

Closing the stores early comes next. We hope to see the day when the country stores will close every Saturday afternoon, at least, to give the faithful clerks a rest and time to get ready for Sunday. A great deal of Sabbath breaking comes from the excuse that people have to work all the week and Sunday is their only day for recreation. People should not put off so much shopping until Saturday. It tires everybody.

Cloverport is the sweetest name on the face of the globe. The Nashville Boosters in their mistake of calling us Cloversport and Cloverdean, made us appreciate the name of our town.

The best way to get along with people is to attend to your own work and keep so busy that you haven't time to get impatient with others.

With the amount of attention and advertising giving the C. H. S. Commencement, everybody knows the program for this week.

Let us continue to stand by the President. That is the way just now to stand by the flag!—New York Sun.

RED CLOVER

Should be Given a Trial by Every Farmer, Writes John T. Ditto—Beautiful Fields of Crimson.

Editor Breckenridge News:

It has been my great pleasure in last few days, through Todd and Logan counties, Kentucky, to see many patches and fields of crimson clover. Not anything new in the clover line, but looks to be a farmer's friend in helping to redeem the worn lands. The fields are now in full bloom. The beauty of its deep crimson, is beyond pen's description, and no brush can possibly paint, so beautiful a color as it carries, that God has given it. No paint or brush by human hands give to us the many beauties of nature that we can see each day in the country. Yet there are doubting Thomases of an all wise God.

This clover is seeded generally in the latter part of August, either in fallow ground or in corn, after last cultivation. Makes a fine hay it is said, and a wonderful fertilizer if turned under after well matured. You can hardly use a cheaper fertilizer. It sells for about $6.00 and a bushel will seed 6 acres. It is worth a dollar an acre to look on as magnificent 20 acre field as I saw, and was into at Adairville, Ky.

There is not a farmer but can buy a gallon of seed and give it a trial. If it gives him anything like results I see in dubbing about over the highway, he will no doubt stretch it up to several gallons the next year. Try a ten or 100 square foot bed in your garden, if nothing more.

This is a day of and for greater productivity of our soil. Not only profitable in getting the soil to a higher productivity to fill our garrets and swell our bank accounts, until it looks like a "pison" pup after two days death. But the great pleasure of feeling and knowing you will get a return for your labor if you get your soil in a condition that it will respond generously to God's bright sunshine and rain. Farmers have got to get the knots and crimps out of their noodles by reading and experimenting and getting a hump in their backs and go after it, if they expect to meet the demand and opportunity of the farm products. Get out of the old ruts. If you cannot fill them to make it easier hauling, cut out a new road.

Yours truly,
JOHN T. DITTO,
May 11, 1915. Springfield, Tenn.

Mr. J. A. Beavin

of Eastland, has said that for the first year in 15 his wife has enjoyed health. Ask him him why, he will tell you that it was by taking the old herb malaria medicine from Greenwell & Worthington. See what others will have to say. This is no patent medicine, merely roots (food) like your potatoes, etc. They will give a 50c package to all sufferers with malaria, who will call on them within ten days from date. This is to prove the merits of the herbs. Don't miss this.

Landlady Kept It and Had to Pay $102.

Anthony, Kan.—The famous Harper county umbrella, which has been in litigation for several months, became the undisputed property of Mrs. Mary Schoeneman of Harper a few days ago when a jury in the district court assessed her $2 for the property rights attached thereto, together with the costs in the case, which have mounted to $100.

Mrs. Schoeneman is the landlady at a rooming house in Harper. Mrs. Lillie Smith, with her daughter and two grandchildren, contracted for a room with the Schoenemans. Mrs. Smith says the contract price for the bed for four was 50 cents. Mrs. Schoeneman says it was 75 cents.

Mrs. Smith would pay only 50 cents when she left, and it was accepted. She forgot her umbrella. Mrs. Schoeneman held it for the twenty-five cent balance.

Mrs. Smith sued. The justice court gave her a verdict for $3.50 and $7 attorney fees. Mrs. Schoeneman appealed to a jury, and it found again for Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Schoeneman paid the costs and quit.

Oklahoma Entomologist Finds Evidence of Disease.

Oklahoma City, Okla. — C. E. Sanborn, state entomologist at the A. and M. college, has discovered that a disease which he describes as paralysis has attacked the honeybees in Oklahoma. Dead bees are furnished him for investigation.

He took live bees and infected them with the bacillus of the dead ones, and soon they died. He says:

"In death they showed the same action as bees ordinarily found with paralysis. Their abdomens became distended, their two front feet drawn up against their chests, the four hind feet stretched out, sprawling and quivering; the mouth parts extended and quivering and the head frequently turned to one side."

WIPING OUT MALARIA IN PANAMA CANAL ZONE

American Sanitary Officers Meeting With Great Success.

Washington.—The report of the department of health of the Panama canal for the last calendar year shows that the American sanitary officers on the canal zone are meeting with remarkable success in combating malaria.

Those other diseases so likely to visit white men in tropical climates, dysentery and typhoid fever, are also being coped with successfully. The report shows that no deaths occurred among Americans in the canal zone in the year 1914 from malaria, dysentery or typhoid fever. Yellow fever, as is well known, has long since been banished from the canal zone by the scientific efficacy and thoroughness of the methods of the American sanitary officials.

The fact is that malaria, not only among the Americans in the canal region, but among the entire population there, has been reduced to a lower point than ever before. In this connection, it appears, apart from the report for the year 1914, that the malarial outbreaks among employees in the canal zone outside of Cristobal and Toro Point are now at the lowest point.

The pneumonia death rate increased considerably owing to prevalence of measles among the black employees and the overcrowded conditions in which the people live in Panama. The five diseases causing the highest number of deaths in their order are pneumonia, tuberculosis, nephritis, organic diseases of the heart and malaria.

In the latter half of 1914 a periodic physical examination was made of all food handlers in the kitchens, mess rooms and commissaries of the Panama canal with the result that one typhoid carrier and a number of cases of contagious diseases were detected and eliminated. This doubtless prevented much disease among employees.

In Colon and Panama the figures show a high infant mortality, due to ignorance and indifference on the part of mothers.

The Million Dollar Mystery

CHAPTER XXII.

A Night of Adventure.

The federal government agreed to say nothing, to put no obstacles in the way of the Russian agent, provided he could abduct his trio without seriously clashing with the New York police authorities. It was a recognized fact that the local police force wanted the newspaper glory which would attend the crushing of the Black Hundred. It would be an exploit. But their glory was nil; nor did Servan take his trio back with him to Russia.

Many strange things happened that night, the night of the final adventure.

Florence sat in her room reading. The book was "Oliver Twist," not the pleasantest sort of book to read under the existing circumstances. Several times—she had reached the place where Fagin overheard Nancy's confession—she fancied she heard doors closing softly, but credited it to her imagination. Poor Nancy, who wanted to be good but did not find time to be! Florence possessed a habit familiar to most of us; the need of apples or candy when we are reading. So she rang the bell for her maid, intending to ask her to bring up some apples. She turned to her reading, presently to break off and strike the bell again. Where was that maid? She waited perhaps five minutes, then laid down the book and began to investigate.

There was not a servant to be found in the entire house! What in the world could that mean? Used as she was to heartrending suspense, she was none the less terrified. Something had taken the servants from the house. From whence was the danger to come this time? Where was Jones? Why did he not return as he had promised? It was long past the hour when he said he would be back.

She went into the library and picked up the telephone. She was told that Mr. Norton was out on an assignment, but that he would be notified the moment he returned. She opened a drawer in the desk. She touched the automatic, but did not take it up. She left the drawer open, however.

Earlier, at the newspaper office that night, Jim went into the managing editor's office and laid a bulky manuscript on that gentleman's desk.

"Is this it?"

"It is," said Jim.

"You have captured them?"

"No; but there is a net about them from which not one shall escape. There's the story of my adventures, of the adventures of Miss Hargreave and the butler, Jones. You'll find it exciting enough. You might just as well send it up to the composing room. At midnight I'll telephone the introduction. It's a scoop. Don't worry about that."

The editor rifled the pages.

"A hundred and twelve pages, 300 words to the page; man it's a novel!"

"It'll read like one."

"Sit down for a moment and let me skim through the first story."

At the end of ten minutes the editor laid down the copy. He opened a drawer and took out two envelopes. The blue one he tore up and dropped into the waste basket. Norton understood and smiled. They had meant to discharge him if he fell down. The other envelope was a fat one.

"Open it," said the editor, smiling a little to himself.

This envelope contained a check for $2,500, two round-trip first-class tickets to Liverpool, together with innumerable continental tickets such as are issued to tourists.

"Why two?" asked Jim, innocently.

"Forget it, my boy, forget it. You ought to know that in this office we don't employ blind men. The whole staff is on. There you are, a fat check and three months' vacation. Go and get married; and if you return before the three months are up I'll fire you myself on general principles."

Jim laughed happily and the two men shook hands. Then Jim went forth to complete the big assignment. Five minutes later Florence called him up to learn that he had gone.

What should she do? Jones had told her to stay in the house and not to leave it. But where was he? Why did he not come? What was the meaning of his desertion by the servants? She wandered about aimlessly, looking out of windows, imagining forms in the shadows. Her imagination had not deceived her; she had heard doors close softly.

"Susan, Susan!" she murmured; but Susan was in the hospital.

"Oliver Twist!" What had possessed her to start reading that old tale again? She should have read something of a light and joyous character. After half an hour's wandering about the lonely house she returned to the library, feeling that she would be safer where both telephone and revolver were.

And while she sat waiting for she knew not what, her swiftly beating heart sending the blood into her throat so that it almost suffocated her, a man turned into the street and walked noiselessly toward the Hargreave place. He passed a man leaning against a lamppost, but he never turned to look at him.

This man, however, threw away his cigar and hot-footed it to the nearest pay station. He knew in his soul that he had just seen the man for whom they had been hunting all these weary but strenuous weeks—Stanley Hargreave in the flesh! Half an hour after his telephone message the chief of the Black Hundred and many lesser lights were on their way to the house of mystery. Had they but known!

Now, the man who had created this tremendous agitation went serenely on. He proceeded directly and fearlessly to the front door, produced a latchkey and entered. He passed through the hall and reception room to the library and paused on the threshold dramatically. Florence stepped back with a sharp cry of alarm. She had heard the hall door open and close and had taken it for granted that Jones had entered.

There was a tableau of short duration.

"Don't you know me?" asked the stranger in a singularly pleasant voice.

Florence had been imposed upon too many times. She shook her head defiantly, though her knees shook so that she was certain that the least touch would send her over.

"I am your father, child!"

Florence slipped unsteadily behind the desk and seized the revolver which lay in the drawer. The man by the curtains smiled sadly. It was a smile that caused Florence to waver a bit. Still she extended her arm.

"You do not believe me?" said the man, advancing slowly.

"No, I have been deceived too many times, sir. Stay where you are. You will wait here till my butler returns. Oh, if I were only sure!" she burst out suddenly and passionately. "What proof have you that you are what you say?"

He came toward her, holding out his hands. "This, that you cannot shoot me. Ah, the damnable wretches! What have they done to you, my child, to make you suspicious of every one? How I have watched over you in the street! I will tell you what only Jones and the reporter know, that the aviator died, that I alone was rescued, that I gave Norton the five thousand; that I watched the windows of the Russian woman, and overheard nearly every plot that was hatched in the council chamber of the Black Hundred; that I was shot in the arm while crossing the lawn one night. And now we have the scoundrels just where we want them. They will be in this house for me within half an hour, and not one of them will leave it in freedom. I am your father, Florence. I am the lonely father who has spent the best years of his life away from you in order to secure your safety. Can't you feel the truth of all this?"

"No, no! Please do not approach any nearer; stay where you are!"

At that moment the telephone rang. With the revolver still leveled she picked up the receiver.

"Hello, hello! Who is it?"

Oh, Jim, Jim, come at once! I am holding at bay a man who says he is my father. Hold him where he is, you say? All right, I will. Come quick!"

"Jim!" murmured the man, still advancing. He must have that revolver. The poor child might spoil the whole affair. "So what Jones tells me is true: that you are going to marry this reporter chap?"

She did not answer.

"With or without my consent?"

If only he would drop that fearless smile! she thought. "With or without anybody's consent," she said.

"What in the world can I say to you to convince you?" he cried. "The trap is set; but if Braine and his men come and find us like this, good heaven, child, we are both lost! Come, come!"

"Stay where you are!"

At that moment she heard a sound at the door. Her gaze roved; and it was enough for the man. He reached out and caught her arm. She tried to tear herself loose.

"My child, in God's name, listen to reason! They are entering the hall and they will have us both."

Suddenly Florence knew. She could not have told you why; but there was an appeal in the man's voice that went to her heart.

"You are my father!"

"Yes, yes! But you've found it out just a trifle too late, my dear. Quick; this side of the desk!"

Braine and his men dashed into the library. Olga entered leisurely.

"Both of them!" yelled Braine exultantly. "Both of them together; what luck!"

There was a sharp, fierce struggle; and when it came to an end Hargreave was trussed to a chair.

"Ah, so we meet again, Hargreave!" said Braine.

Hargreave shrugged. What he wanted was time.

"A million! We have you. Where is it, or I'll twist your heart before your eyes."

"Father, forgive me!"

"I understand, my child."

"Where is it?" Braine seized Florence by the wrist and swung her toward him.

"Don't tell him, father; don't mind me," said the girl bravely.

Braine, smiling his old evil smile, drew the girl close. It was the last time he ever touched her.

"Look!" screamed Olga.

Every one turned, to see Jones' face peering between the curtains. There was an ironic smile on the butler's lips. The face vanished.

"After him!" cried Braine, releasing Florence.

"After him!" mimicked a voice from the hall.

The curtains were thrown back suddenly. Jones appeared, and Jim and the Russian agent and a dozen policemen. Tableau!

Braine was the only man who kept his head. He floored Norton, smashed a window, and leaped out. The blow dazed Norton, but he was on his feet almost instantly and followed Braine through the window. Across the lawn the two sped, with an exchange of shots which emptied both automatics but did no damage. Braine headed for his auto. He jumped in, only to be hauled out again by the furious reporter. A hand-to-hand fight followed; and the clean life of the reporter told.

"There, my angelic friend, I believe that the game is up. There is one shot left in this automatic. If you make any attempt to escape, I'll let you have it; not to kill but to disable. You and your precious countess will sail tomorrow morning for the Baltic, and from there you will go to the lead mines." He dragged his prisoner toward the house.

"Your troubles are over, my child," said Hargreave, as he pressed Florence to his heart.

"And mine have begun," murmured the countess. "But I have still one shot."

The police stood encircling her. Calmly she opened her handbag and took out her handkerchief. It was thick and heavy silk one. Swiftly she unscrewed the top of her walking stick (it will be seen now that the carrying of it was not an affectation!), extracted a vial and threw it violently to the floor. An overpowering sweet odor filled the room. Jones, knowing how deeply versed Braine was in oriental poisons and narcotics, made a desperate but futile effort to tear down a curtain to throw over the liquid; but even in the effort he felt his senses going. The last he was conscious of was a mocking laugh.

But the entrance of Jim, dragging Braine after him, shocked all the banner out of the countess. She turned and rushed madly for the stairs, without having the least idea how she was to manage an escape from the upper stories. She had thought Braine free. As she flew up the steps all the past returned, all her warnings to that stubborn man. This was the end . . . Russia! The horrors of the cold and the deadly damps of the mines . . . forever!

Jim, still holding the battered conspirator, watched her flight in amazement. He could not understand—till he pushed Braine into the library and the vanishing odor assailed his nostrils. What these fumes were he never knew, but they proved to be transitory. Five minutes sufficed to bring all back to their senses. For the while they forgot Olga.

"This man is mine," said Servan, nodding toward Braine.

"He's yours without charge," said Jim.

"I'm an American citizen," said Braine, who, realizing what the future held, readily preferred a long prison term in America to the horrors of Russian exile.

"Your certificate has been destroyed," said Servan, "and the state department considers your papers void because you obtained them under false oaths. You are an undesirable citizen; and the republic is happy to learn that you will be taken off its hands."

"And because," added Norton, "you have laid too many mines in the black-mailing business, and the government does not propose to have them made known to the public through a long and useless trial. It was a long run, old top; but right is right. And by the way, I want you to meet Mr. Jeddson, formerly of Scotland Yard."

He indicated Jones, who started.

"Yes," went on the reporter, "I recognized him long ago."

"It is true," said Hargreave, taking Jones' hand in his own. "Fifteen years ago I employed him to watch my affairs, and very well has he done so. And to you, you wretch," turning upon the aggrieved Braine, "listen; there is a million, and you have been within a foot of it a dozen times. It has been under your very nose. Do you remember Poe's 'Parloined Letter'? Ha! Under your very nose, within touch of your hand! Now, take him away, Mr. Servan. The police will be satisfied with the prisoners they have."

So, presently, Hargreave, Jones, Florence and Jim were alone. That smile which had revealed to Florence her father's identity stole over his face again. He put his hand on Jim's shoulder and beckoned to Florence.

"Are you really anxious to marry this young man?"

Florence nodded.

"Well, then, do so. And go to Europe with him on your honeymoon; and as a wedding present to you both, for every dollar that he has I will add a hundred; and when you get tired of travel you will both come back here to live. The Black Hundred has ceased to exist."

"And now," said Jones, shaking his shoulders.

"Well?" said Hargreave.

"My business is done. Still—" Jones paused.

"Go on," said Hargreave soberly.

"Well, the truth is, sir, I've grown used to you. And if you'll let me play the butler till the end I shall be most happy."

"I was going to suggest it."

Norton took Florence by the hand and drew her away.

"Where are you taking me?" she asked.

"I'm going to take this pretty hand of yours and put it flat upon $1,000,000. And if you don't believe it, follow me."

She followed.

The Argus Resumes.

The people of Central City and Muhlenberg county are to be congratulated upon the resumption of the publication of the Argus. They are to be congratulated upon the good sense they have shown in encouraging so worthy and competent a young man as Cleburne Gregory to return and take up the work of making one of the best country papers in the state. In doing this his community will reap greater benefits than will the young editor.

For many years he was city editor of the Inquirer, and no one who was ever connected with this paper deserved more credit for conscientious and faithful service than Cleburne Gregory. He is in a position to do more for the growth and development of Central City than any one there, and if the citizens of that good town want to help themselves they will give him the support he deserves.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Letter From Mr. Payne.

Dear Mr. Babbage:—

Have been in Arkansas for nearly two years and most of that time with out our much cherished old paper, the "News." Now that we are almost weaned from Kentucky, except in dreams and fond recollections, will renew subscription, so please send same to our address for time indicated by money order herewith enclosed.

Fenter is situated on the Rock Island railroad, 40 miles south of Little Rock. Is a new place, regularly laid out and incorporated, and contains 14 acres. Has one general store, church, school, good depot, telegraph office, pumping station, wood and blacksmith shop, and a population of about 100. Is in the center of a nice level body of land 40x10 miles and one mile from Saline river. The railroad is perfectly straight for 14 miles and you can see a train that distance of a clear day. The country is partially settled with good native citizens and many from other and older states are dropping in to make homes in a new country.

I am associated with a Land Co., who own 7,000 acres of this land, which can be bought for, from $10 to $50 per acre. They have sold 10,000 acres of this land within the last three years.

To my old friends in old Breckenridge we tip our beaver for the present and will probably have more to say to you later concerning possibilities for a young man who is willing to work in Arkansas.

Respectfully yours,

Higher Prices for American Farmers.

The level of prices paid American producers for principal crops increased during March about 0.2 per cent. according to the Department of Agriculture. On April 1, the index figure of crop prices was about 7.5 per cent. higher than a year ago. The level of prices paid to producers for meat animals on March 15 was the same as on February 15. The average price of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep and chickens—on March 15 was $6.46 per 100 pounds against $7.37 a year ago.—Farmers Home Journal.

the "Rooster."

Because roosters are allowed to run with laying hens during warm weather $15,000,000 worth of eggs are lost to the farmers throughout the United States each year; and most of this loss occurs during June, July and August. For this reason raisers of poultry are earnestly asked and urged to kill or sell matured males or confine them in pens away from the laying hens during the summer. Eggs that are laid by hens not mated are sterile or infertile, and do not decay. The fertilized eggs spoil very quickly when subjected to the influence of heat and if they are left too long in the nests or under broody hens or are left in any very warm place the germ cells begin to develop, the chicks begin to grow. These growing cells may die at any stage of development due to unfavorable conditions.

Whether the embryo dies or not, the egg is useless as food and is unfit for market. If the wives of the farmers would once realize how much money they practically lose by allowing the roosters to run with the layers, they would immediately stop the practice. Not one egg more is produced with a male running with a flock of hens than without one, and unless the roosters are valuable as breeders, it is far better to dispose of them at the end of the breeding season and replace them with the younger stock the following spring. If we follow this plan we can always have good, strong, vigorous cockerels (young roosters) for breeders, and at the same time get rid of the care of non producers. Let us at least make the most of what we possess.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES INTENSE SUFFERING

Sixteen years ago I was taken sick with Kidney trouble and suffered terribly for three months. I did not work during this time and was mostly confined to the bed. After using other remedies I finally tried a bottle of Swamp-Root. I immediately began to feel better, and after using seven fifty-cent bottles, was entirely cured and have had no Kidney trouble since. I can truly say that I owe my good health to Swamp-Root. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other people afflicted as I was with the hope of bringing to their attention this most wonderful remedy.

Yours very truly,

Of Course You Are Going to See the Exposition

The World in Epitome Shown by Displays in the Vast Exhibit Palaces at the Panama- Pacific International Exposition.

Today the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco is being widely exploited throughout the world by the millions of sight-seers who have visited the exposition since its opening on February 20th last as the most beautiful, comprehensive and interesting universal exposition that the world has ever known. The wonderful exhibit palaces house the treasures of the earth, while the grounds, planted to millions of rare bulbs, are a gorgeous mass of color and fragrance. To the visitor entering the gates for the first time, either by night or day, the scene is certain to hold the newcomer spellbound, as the vast panorama unfolds bit by bit before the gaze and the eye wanders from one beauty spot to another in an endless chain of amazing surprises. Entering the main gate at Scott street, for instance, the visitor sees the great Fountain of Energy directly before him, its giant sprays sparkling and flashing in the light of the warm California sun by day, or assuming the appearance of masses of flowing flames by night under the powerful beams of the great batteries of searchlights trained upon this work of art. As the spell is lifted the eye falls upon the Tower of Jewels, the great center piece of the exposition, and again attention is arrested until the eye has conquered the dizzy heights of this gem-studded tower, every cornice and figure sending forth its share of dazzling lights.

The world's advance in all branches of art, science and industry is amazingly portrayed in the exhibits. Among the electrical exhibits, for example, is the Audion amplifier, invented by Lee De Forest. Through this invention the visitor in the Liberal Arts palace is enabled to converse over the long distance telephone with his relatives at the farthest section of the Atlantic coast and may hear the voice of the speaker in greater volume than was actually given into the transmitting telephone. The intensity of the sound is increased by passing through heat waves. Today it is possible for an orator in New York city to address through the telephone a large audience at San Francisco, the sound being increased so that it is of power great enough to fill a large hall. This single advance in the development of the telephone is paralleled in hundreds of other lines. The railroads have made low round trip rates and ample and reasonable accommodations are to be had in San Francisco and the adjoining cities.

ARTS AND CRAFTS OF 10,000 YEARS AGO SHOWN IN THE TEHUANTEPEC VILLAGE AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

The Tehuantepec village on the Zone at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is a bit of the oldest civilization of the world brought to San Francisco from the country of the Aztec ruins in Central America. Beautiful carpet weaving is shown, together with onyx cutting, clay and wax modeling, ancient dancing and singing, pottery making and coloring and other arts characteristic of the people. A typical garden is open to the visitor in the concession in which is to be seen the landscape art of this people.

THE WONDERFUL AEROSCOPE, HIGHER THAN THE FERRIS WHEEL, GIVES VISITORS MARVELOUS VIEW OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST EXPOSITION

VISITORS ON THE AEROSCOPE 265 FEET

THE GIANT FRAME OF THE AEROSCOPE AS IT APPEARED UNDER CONSTRUCTION

For the seeker of amusement there is opportunity a-plenty in the unique mechanical achievement, the Aeroscope, on "The Zone," at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The Aeroscope resembles a giant crane of a novel and intricate design, its steel construction recalling that of the Bascule bridge. At the extremity of the long arm of the crane is a two-story car with a seating capacity for 100 persons and standing room for 20 more. At the short end of the crane is a giant mass of concrete, which serves as a counter-balance for the long arm of the crane. Beneath the car are two great water tanks, which take on water or discharge it as passengers enter or leave the car, thus always preserving the balance to a nicety. When, for example, a man weighing 160 pounds enters the car an amount of water of equal weight is released from the tank, and when the passenger departs 160 pounds of water are automatically discharged into the tank below the car. The car ascends without perceptible motion, and perfect safety and a jarrless ride of ten minutes is assured to passengers while enjoying this trip of 265 feet into the clouds, or four feet higher than the Ferris wheel. Two motors control the ascent and descent in conjunction with the counter-balance of the huge car, and when it reaches its extreme height it begins to swing slowly around on the wheels at its base, giving a magnificent view of the exposition, of San Francisco bay and of the city of San Francisco.

Visitors to the Zone at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition find much to amuse them by a visit to "Soa Kum" and hundreds of other interesting concessions which line the Zone's broad avenue for a mile. In "Soa Kum" one tries to hit all kinds of heads for all kinds of prizes.

Some Marvelous Exhibits at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition

Exhibits in Agricultural Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Ex- position Show Caterpillar Gaining Favor Over Lug-wheel Trac- tors in Farm Machinery.

An observer in the Agriculture Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco cannot help noticing, in the display of agricultural power machinery, the almost complete supersession of the new design of power tractor, known as the caterpillar, over the cumbersome, unstable, high-wheeled engine of a few years ago. There are few of the old models on exhibition, while the caterpillar principle has been applied to almost every type of engine for agricultural purposes.

The caterpillar proper is a heavy sheet metal chain, varying in width from ten inches to two feet according to the weight of the engine, which passes around two heavy sprocket wheels like a belt. These wheels revolving, pass the chain about them, the lower part moving backward, with the weight of the engine resting on the broad surface of the chain between the two sprockets.

An engine of this type can be operated on ground soft enough to mire an ordinary farm wagon.

Duplicate of the Roosevelt African Shotgun.

A duplicate of the shotgun which Col. Theodore Roosevelt took with him on his African trip, a gun constructed expressly for him by an American armorer, is on display at the manufacturer's exhibit in the Manufacturers' Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. The gun cost its illustrious owner $360, and its beautiful design, graceful lines and wonderful inlay work would justify the expenditure to any lover of fine pieces. The stock is elaborately hand carved, the barrels and lock are hand engraved, and the lock is inlaid with a hunting scene in gold. The barrels are of the finest Krupp steel. Before starting on the trip the ex-president wrote to the makers: "I really think it is the most beautiful gun I have ever seen. I am almost ashamed to take it to Africa and subject it to the rough treatment it will receive."

The left barrel is choked and the right open. It is cored to shoot either buckshot or a single ball.

In a group in this Palace are displays by four of the world's greatest manufacturers of sporting arms, which form an exhibit which attracts hundreds of sportsmen. Each display is in charge of a firearms expert.

Pearl Culture a New Industry.

Among the interesting exhibits of the Japanese in the Manufacturers' Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is a demonstration of the methods and results of pearl cultivation in the far East. The displays of this cultivated product, showing hundreds of pearls which until pearl culture was placed on a commercial basis a few years ago would have been the possessions of royalty, will delight any lover of beautiful gems, and the methods of production will prove interesting to any observer. Though pearl culture has become a thriving industry in Japan, attempts to reproduce it in other parts of the world have yielded but meager results.

The successful method of propagation was evolved by the Japanese scientist Kokichi Mikimoto, who discovered a species of oyster which produced the pearl on the surface of the shell. Though the finding of the oysters and inserting the nuclei, then waiting for the pearl to grow to a commercial size may seem a simple process, the fact that it has not reduced the price of the gems, even to that of the most expensive imitations, shows that it is beset with many difficulties.

Daniel Webster's Plow at the Panama- Pacific International Exposition.

One of the most valuable exhibits commercially, in the Agricultural Palace at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, is an ancient plow displayed in the Massachusetts exhibit, and forming a striking contrast to the highly-complex modern machinery displayed on the acreage of floor about it.

The plow owes its distinction to the circumstance that a hundred years ago Daniel Webster's youthful hands guided it along the furrows of his father's farm near Marshfield, Mass. It was drawn by a yoke of oxen and if the future peer of American orators and statesmen could turn an acre of sod a day he had to work from daylight to dark.

Radium Used to Promote Plant Growth.

Some of the remarkable properties of radium are being demonstrated by an exhibitor in the Liberal Arts building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, in connection with a new invention making possible the radiofying of water for medicinal purposes.

Demonstrating the power of this mineral promoting metabolism a number of young plants, some existing with and some without the aid of radium, are shown. Those in the radioactive soils are seen to be growing much more rapidly than those in common soil, and to have a more healthy appearance.

This inventor has found a process of impregnating terra cotta bricks with radium-bearing minerals, and these small bricks placed in water are said to give it remarkable curative properties. The porous bricks last almost indefinitely, losing only half their potency, it is estimated, in 1,800 years. Since the discovery of this mineral it has been found that many celebrated waters, as Carlsbad and Baden Baden, owe their health-giving properties to radium. The inventor claims that his process produces in ordinary waters the qualities of these famous springs.

The radium ore used in the manufacture of radioactive terra cotta is known as carnotite, a formation found mainly in Colorado and Utah, and now producing three-fourths of the world's radium. The European mineral, known as pitchblende, from which the famous European springs are impregnated, is also displayed.

Most Rapid Photographs Ever Taken.

The most remarkable set of speed photographs ever taken are a part of the war department's exhibit in Machinery Hall at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. They are pictures of a shell from a 12-inch coast defense gun in flight, the set including the various phases of the flight beginning just as the great projectile pokes its nose out of the muzzle of the gun.

The pictures were taken with a lens having an exposure period of one five-thousandth of a second, this being the fastest shutter ever manufactured. The exposure at the proper time in the flight of the projectile was made by breaking an electric circuit in a wire stretched across the trajectory at the desired point and connecting with the shutter.

One picture shows the shell halfway out of the muzzle before any smoke and gas has escaped. Another was taken when the shell was two feet from the muzzle but hidden by a heavy ring of smoke. A third shows the shell in flight a hundred feet from the muzzle. The photographs are so perfect and the exposure so rapid that scarcely any blur is perceptible. They were taken at Fortress Monroe, Va., under the direction of Capt. F. J. Behl of the coast artillery corps and head of the department of enlisted specialists at the Coast Artillery school at Fortress Monroe.

NATIVE LIFE OF THE FAR PACIFIC.

The photograph shows the belle of the interesting Samoan village at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco. The structures in this village, comprising the native thatched huts of the Samoan, or as they were formerly called, the Navigator islands, were brought intact from the native villages and are absolutely faithful in all their features. There are many native families living in the village who for the edification of visitors perform the aquatic feats in which the islanders excel, and dance the rhythmic native dances. The life of the people of the Pacific ocean is wonderfully illustrated at the Exposition, and of all the races none are more interesting than the Samoans who exhibit many traces of Aryan descent. No Exposition visitor should fail to see these unique tribespeople.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall's Exposition Message to the Nation

The Vice-President of the United States, after spending five days at the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, indited the following message to the people of the nation containing his appreciation of the great fair:

"The steps of my life seem to have been marked by national expositions. My young manhood began with the Centennial, maturity was marked by the Columbian and Louisiana Purchase, and now the sunset years bring me to this marvel of the Republic upon the shores of the sunset seas. So often have I thought I saw the Pillars of Hercules inscribed with their 'ne plus ultra' that I hesitate to say that I have reached them. But they who build this Panama-Pacific International Exposition were so wise in adopting all the good features and avoiding those which marred the preceding ones, that to me it seems as near perfection as the mind and hand of man have ever wrought.

"Whoever can, even at a sacrifice of something which for the moment appears necessary, should come to see a real work of art never equaled, even by a mirage. If there be anyone in America with a thirst for knowledge and for beauty and a longing for a liberal education, such an one can here obtain it.

"This is the University of the world. It has a chair fully endowed to meet the wants and needs of each. The eye, the ear, the mind, the heart, the soul, each may have its horizon here enlarged. I came to bear a message; I remain to become a student; I leave the feet of this Gamaliel of all expositions with regret.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL."

Best Thing for a Billious Attack.

"On account of my confinement in the printing office I have for years been a chronic sufferer from indigestion and liver trouble. A few weeks ago I had an attack that was so severe that I was not able to go to the case for two days. Failing to get any relief from any other treatment, I took three of Chamberlain's Tablets and the next day I felt like a new man," writes H. C. Bailey, Editor Carolina News, Chapin, S. C. POLAND A DESERT; FUTURE IS DARK

Every Second Man In the Country Is Now a Refugee.

PEOPLE IN WANT OF FOOD.

Robert Crozier Long Makes Extended Tour of Country and Finds Great Devastation and Much Suffering. Tells Exactly What He Has Seen and What People Face.

London.—Robert Crozier Long, author and special correspondent, has written an account of his extended tour of the war devastated districts of Poland. In it he says:

"Finis Poloniae," Kosciusko's epitaph on his country, has been realized.

"A tour of central and south Poland and the Polish parts of Galicia convinces me of that. I visited all the chief towns and many villages, or ruins of villages, in 10,000 square miles of country lying between the Austro-German lines and the Vistula in a semicircle from the Bzura to the Nida. I visited also the basin of the Dunajec and Wiloka, the theater of the sanguinary May day outbreak. The country is a desert, the home of nomads. I got my first glimpse of it on the Bzura, west of Warsaw, where during a four months' artillery duel every habitation has disappeared.

"I reached this battle front first after dusk and from an observation tower saw the remnants were gaunt, erect pillars. This is typical of burnt out Poland. A street of frame cottages, often straw thatched, catches fire from the first shell and only ugly rows of brick chimneys are left.

"Isolated factories all have been destroyed, mostly by airmen's bombs on the suspicion that they were staff headquarters. Thirty villages either were burned or blown up.

"The governor of Radom assured me that in his province 500 villages had been burned. Refugees assure me that in a circle extending thirty miles around Lodz only five villages were spared.

"Poland's population is suffering as no Europeans have suffered since the Thirty Years' war. Every second man is a refugee. Warsaw has 60,000 refugees, a third of them Jews. In Radom I found 15,000 refugees, in Kielce 20,000.

"A Warsaw rabbi assured me that 100,000 Jews from the towns of Lodz, Piotrkow and Lowicz are without homes. Many refugees still tramp the roads, begging despairingly from people themselves beggars. Many thousands are huddled in the tottering fragments of cottages, while 10,000 are shivering in the abandoned trenches and terraced Russian dugouts at Skaryszow.

"I met many refugees without food or money and mostly ill clad. Near Ostrowiec was a dreary procession of men in thick sheepskin coats without other clothing, women in men's trousers and children in dresses improvised from shawls.

"Such is Poland's present. The future will be even worse. The country, ravaged and irreclaimable, begins to resemble the primeval Sarmatian waste. Roads, forests and even fields have vanished.

"The roads which have been repaired cannot bring food to civilians, for all are crowded by parallel transport columns. The fields were destroyed by transport and artillery trains, which, finding the roads too narrow, spread right and left, obliterating farms.

"Winter grain was not sown, and there is no seed grain for spring.

"The worst, because it is irremediable, is the forest destruction. Some woods have been hewn wholesale to make causeways through morasses, some to pave roads, some to make a clear field for artillery, some shelled to bits because they afforded shelter for troops, some drenched with petroleum and burned. This forest devastation means for Poland generations of beggary."

STOWAWAY ALMOST DEAD.

Seattle Man Hadn't Food or Water For Eight Days.

Seward, Alaska.—Leland F. Farmer, a young draftsman who stowed away on the steamer Admiral Evans of the Pacific Alaska Navigation company at Seattle, was found in the lower hold. He had been eight days without food or water, but will recover. When discovered he was wedged head downward between two bales of hay.

Farmer had heard that there are excellent opportunities for draftsmen at Ship Creek, Cook Inlet, where the government is assembling men and material for building the federal railroad in Alaska.

Cork Leg No Help to Him. Cleveland, O.—Owen Kelley's cork leg instead of acting as a life preserver a few days ago when he fell into the lake from the pier at the foot of East Ninth street came very near being a life destroyer. Struggle as he would he could not raise his head to a level with his leg, which floated buoyantly. Commander Kelly of the Ohio naval militia steamer Dorothea was coming ashore and dragged the drowning man out.

Prevent Hog Cholera.

The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder has a record of 95 per cent. cures of Hog Cholera. If you feed your hogs as directed, you need never fear hog cholera nor any other hog disease. And the directions are very simple, just about what you are doing, plus a few cents worth of B. A. Thomas Hog Powder in the feed twice a week.

Usually though, Cholera gets in before we know it. Then it requires close attention to each hog—each hog must be dosed—and if you will dose them as directed you will save better than 90 per cent. If you don't, the B. A. Thomas medicine costs you nothing. We—not some distant manufacturer—pay your money back. For sale at Wedding's drug store, Cloverport, Ky.

Got More Than Amount Spent For Her Ad.

Mrs. Harry Hamman, who placed an ad in the Breckenridge News, advertising chicks for sale, received ample returns. Mrs. Hamman says whenever she has anything to sell, she advertises. "The reason so many people lose out in their business undertakings is because they do not advertise," said Mrs. Hamman, when speaking of the results of her ad.

The family of Mr. John W. Pauley, including his sister and brothers, extend sincere thanks for the kindness shown them at Mr. Pauley's death and funeral.
